These stages of practice are for self-assessment and self-development. Use them for yourself, to track and develop your personal journey. The benefits of these activity are directly proportional to your interest and commitment to yourself.

You can begin by setting personal goals. Try to attain those goals by the time you complete the program, and then to develop beyond. There are weekly activities, including articles, video links and questions, to allow you to delve deeper and gather the best experience.

The activities are of four types:

HOW TO DEAL WITH THOUGHTS IN MEDITATION?

THOUGHTS during MEDITATION

Generally we complain of many thoughts and ideas creeping into the mind at the time of meditation. We think we have failed in our practice unless we bring our mind to a standstill, but it is not so. We are not practising concentration, but only meditation.

We only need to go on with meditation unmindful of the ideas that happen to come to our mind at the time. The flow of ideas is due to the activities of our conscious mind, which is never at rest. We go on meditating with our subconscious mind, while our conscious mind is roaming about and forming numerous ideas. Thus we are not the loser in any way. After some time and sufficient practice, the conscious mind is also moulded and begins to act in harmony with the subconscious mind. The result achieved is deep-rooted and lasting. Finally calmness, the characteristic of the soul, becomes predominant.
